

Summer Social Studies Study

In addition to the states and capitals you will be learning via the summer reading program, you will be asked to acquaint yourself with some of the important sites that we will be learning about as we study U.S. geography and American history in the coming year. At the beginning of July you will receive, via the mail, a table that will require you to do a little research to determine where various sites are located in America and their importance or significance. You will be tested after school starts on the information you discover. A strong effort on your part will help you to not only learn about our country but will also ease your academic responsibility throughout the year.

If you have not received your materials and instructions by the 4th of July please contact Mr. Cash at 512-899-1001 or by mail at 4006 Travis Country Circle, Austin, 78735.
